Continuation Update

P2. Location: 3905 Wisconsin St

B10 Significance:

This Turn-of-the-Twentieth-Century cottage appears in good condition with no visible alterations since the property was last evaluated in the 1985 survey. Character defining features include the building's mass and scale, symmetry, hipped roof with center hipped dormer, exposed rafter tails, wood frame tripartite windows, recessed full-width front entry porch, and tapered Doric porch posts. Although the property does not appear to be individually eligible for listing in the National Register or California Register, it does appear eligible for individual listing as a City of Los Angeles Historic Cultural Monument as a very good and highly intact representative example of a Turn-of-the-Twentieth-Century cottage in the Exposition Park area.
